Election/Restrictions

1. Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. 121:
 - I. Claims 1-27 and 35-37, drawn to a composition of ladder comprising a mixture of nucleic acid fragments of different lengths; and claims 39-42, drawn to a kit comprising said composition or ladder, classified in class 435, subclass 6.
 - II. Claim 28, drawn to a recombinant DNA molecule comprising said fragments, classified in class 536, subclass 23.1.
 - III. Claims 29-31, drawn to a vector, classified in class 435, subclass 320.1.
 - IV. Claims 32-34, drawn to a transformed host cell, classified in class 435, subclass 252.3.
 - V. Claim 38, drawn to a method for sizing one or more nucleic acid molecules of unknown length, classified in class 436, subclass 94.

The inventions are distinct, each from the other because of the following reasons:

2. Inventions I and II-IV are related as mutually exclusive species in an intermediate-final product relationship. Distinctness is proven for claims in this relationship if the intermediate product is useful to make other than the final product (MPEP § 806.04(b), 3rd paragraph), and the species are patentably distinct (MPEP § 806.04(h)). In the instant case, the intermediate product is deemed to be useful in the expression of an encoded polypeptide and the inventions are deemed patentably distinct since there is nothing on this record to show them to be obvious variants. Should applicant traverse on the ground that the species are not patentably distinct, applicant should submit evidence or identify such evidence now of record showing the species to be obvious variants or clearly admit on the record that this is the case. In either instance, if the examiner finds one of the inventions anticipated by the prior art, the evidence or admission may be used in a rejection under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) of the other invention.

3. Inventions I and V are related as product and process of use. The inventions can be shown to be distinct if either or both of the following can be shown: (1) the process for using the product as claimed can be practiced with another materially different product or (2) the product as claimed can be used in a materially different process of using that product (MPEP § 806.05(h)). In the instant case the product as claimed can be used in materially different processes such as restriction mapping and sequencing where the "ladder" is the individual nucleic acid fragments generated through primer extension reactions and wherein each of said primer extension products has one additional base.

4. Inventions II, III, and IV are related as subcombinations disclosed as usable together in a single combination. The subcombinations are distinct from each other if they are shown to be separately usable. In the instant case, invention of Group IV has separate utility such as a means for expressing a protein encoded by an intact nucleic acid sequence. See MPEP § 806.05(d).

5. Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above and have acquired a separate status in the art as shown by their different classification, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

6. Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include an election of the invention to be examined even though the requirement be traversed (37 CFR 1.143).
